Get A Flash File For A man who is charged with assaulting a stranger in a Melbourne hospital after he was arrested for allegedly stealing from a restaurant has been charged with attempted murder after the attack on July 4. Victoria Police said they arrested the 51-year-old man on Tuesday at the Royal Melbourne Hospital with his head bleeding and threatening doctors and nurses with a knife and an axe. The man was arrested at the hospital after allegedly stealing from an Indian restaurant in the Box Hill suburb of Melbourne on Monday. He has been charged with attempted murder. (Victoria Police: AAP Image) (AAP) He has been charged with attempted murder and acts intended to cause grievous bodily harm, and has been remanded in custody until his court appearance on August 13. Doctors initially thought he had a serious head injury and transferred him to the city's Austin Hospital, before returning him to the hospital's intensive care unit about 2.15pm. Six nurses and a doctor were injured by the man's actions, police said. A man who is charged with assaulting a stranger in a Melbourne hospital after he was arrested for allegedly stealing from a restaurant has been charged with attempted murder after the attack on July 4. (ABC News) "This is an incredibly scary incident to experience," State Health Officer Jill Hennessy said. "To go through the trauma of having a head injury and then to be attacked by the person you're treating is very concerning." Police will allege d4474df7b8
