I would love to take a baseball bat to him," Chris Matthews told Joe Scarborough at MSNBC's 9th Annual Town Hall, hosted by Jane Velez-Mitchell. "He's a very sick man," Matthews said. "I think [President Barack] Obama will be remembered as one of the great presidents, and I think Obama will be remembered as one of the great presidents, but I don't think Trump will. I really don't." Matthews continued: "If Trump had said Hillary should be executed. I don't know what I would've done. If Hillary had said something like that, she'd be put on trial." "You know, Trump has been on a roll as of lately," Scarborough added. "It is funny, 'cause now that he's been doing well, the right wing have figured out, wait a second, the not-that-bigoted, not-so-good people might be interested in hearing this guy. And so they're coming out. They're rallying. They're cooking these roasts. They're setting up for him. And he's getting a boost." "I get why the American people like him. It's because he's a white man who tells them 'I'm not a racist,'" Scarborough added. "But, for the record, I think he is," Matthews said. "And I feel sorry for him." Matthews also had some words for Vice President Mike Pence. "Pence is a decent person, but he had the world's greatest opportunity to come out against Donald Trump and he did not. He thinks he's being courageous. Maybe he's thinking about running for president. Maybe he's thinking about running for president of the United States. Maybe he knows he has a chance because he's running for governor of Indiana and he thinks that as a Southern conservative he can win. And he might. Pence is running for governor in Indiana." "I think he could be president," Matthews concluded. "I think somebody as decent as Pence would get elected. But I'm thinking he's not going to run. He's not going to run."Q
